Webfire doesn't have an NSPS 0000a pulldown so you can't get the compliance reports.

Talked to MPG, and you're both right J

The Annual Report for 0000a or any periodic (compliance-type) or notification report for any other rule has a 30-day processing period before released to WebFIRE.

The performance test or performance evaluation report that use the ERT have a 60-day processing period before being released to WebFIRE.

Maybe it is 60, but I thought Bob Schell told me 30. We will verify.

Thought it was 60? If its 30 then that is great. I can tell them that when I speak to them again.

Marcia,

I asked Lisa to work on this. However, one thing we may want to think about in our response is the fact that these reports become publicly available 30 days after submitting, so we may just have to point that out and give them the address for them to pull.

Can you get the 43 compliance reports in CEDRI pulled. Do we know why it shows that no performance tests were submitted? How long will this take?
